JUDGE STARK will open the Circuit Court next Monday morning.

THE June rise in the river has come in this year. It is now almost bank full and still rising.

We hear of some complaint of the army worm in some sections of the county.

THERE has been more tobacco planted this week than is usual at this date.

If you want to keep up with the proceedings of the General Conference, subscribe for the Daily Advocate.

DR. JOHN E. EDWARDS, a delegate from Petersburg, Va., to the General Conference, will preach at the Methodist church, in this city, to-morrow (Sunday) at 10:30 a. m., and 8 p. m. He is said to be an eloquent divine.

THE McKendree church, at Nashville, was formally dedicated on last Sunday, a number of Bishops of the Methodist church officiating at the ceremonies. The Rev. Mr. Messick, of Louisville, Ky., preached the dedication sermon.

MR. J. T. STATION and Mr. W. West arrested one Nelson Griffey, colored, on Tuesday night near Jordan Springs, on charge of stealing tobacco from J. D. Kendrick. After a preliminary examination he was committed to jail to await the action of the Criminal Court.

CRIMINAL Court has been in session during the week, special Judge A. H. Munford sitting in stead of Judge Tyler, who was absent in Nashville. Very little was done, however owing to the absence of most of the attorneys in attendance upon the Federal Court in Nashville.

THE Sunday-school of the Presbyterian church will celebrate its anniversary next Sunday afternoon, beginning at 4 o'clock, at the Presbyterian church. The exercises will consist of a report of the school, singing by the children, and addresses suited to the occasion. All are invited to attend.

The General Conference.

We have the painful announcement to make that Dr. Thos. O. Summers is dead. He was elected Secretary on Wednesday morning and attended the session of the General Conference on Thursday, at the close of which he was carried in a private condition to his home and bed from which he did not rise again. He was attended by several of the leading physicians of the city, who pronounced his case hopeless. Many members of the Conference, and weeping friends watched by his bedside till six o'clock Saturday morning, when his noble spirit winged its flight to the presence of the great Head of the church. Few, if any, grander men have lived in the church of God on earth. Difficult indeed will it be to fill his place. A great multitude attended his funeral at the Vanderbilt chapel on Sunday afternoon. He was laid to rest in the University grounds along with the remains of Bishops Soule and McKendree. Rev. Dr. John S. Martin, of Virginia, was elected to fill his place as Secretary.

The business of the Conference is moving slowly; the Committees are just beginning to get in their work. A day or two ago the Book Committee made a long and encouraging report on the condition and prospects of the Publishing House. Dr. A. H. Redford, the former Agent, was not satisfied with the report and asked through his friends to read a reply. The request was granted, and the Dr. read for three hours a paper in which he reviewed the unfortunate history of the house for twenty years. Dr. McFerrin is now replying, without bitterness, in a speech. It is to be hoped this is the last of the controversy.

We hear many favorable reports from the preaching last Sunday in your city, and judging from the appointment of Dr. Edwards for next Sunday we predict for you a season of entertainment and profit.

We had the pleasure of hearing an able and incisive sermon from Rev. J. D. Barbee, your pastor, on last night, and the additional pleasure of having at our table our old time and highly esteemed friends, R. H. Pickering and wife. You must not ask me yet who are to be the new Bishops; nobody knows. It will, in all likelihood, be settled the last of this week.

R. K. BROWN.

Nashville, May 10, 1882.

Items from Corbendale.

The splendid rains this week have greatly encouraged the farmers, and assured as good crops as last year even if no more rain falls soon.

Some of the farmers have corn up and plowed out once, others not done breaking the bottom lands to plant.

A mad dog was killed Monday morning at Mr. Frank Eilling's after it had bitten his dog. The dog had been at large since the day before, but it is not known if any other damage was done by it. This is the first one seen in this district, but several have been killed in district No. 9 in the last two weeks.

Some fields placed obstructions—two iron rails and some cross ties on the track a mile and a half below here, on the night of the 21st, to throw the south bound train off. Fortunately it was discovered by the engineer in time to avoid an accident. It is supposed to have been done by tramps that had been put off some of the trains.

DALE.

Corbendale, May 9, 1882.

We record the death of Prof. Jas. N. Neblett, of Brownsville, which occurred on the 3d inst., with feelings of sorrow. He was a son of Rev. John T. Neblett, of Haywood county, and a cousin of J. S. Neblett, of this paper. He was a man of culture and refinement, a Christian gentleman, a dutiful son, a loving husband and a kind and indulgent father. We deeply sympathize with his bereaved and sorrowing family.

We hope this will teach the ladies better and make them more considerate. A man committed suicide at Ruters' Hotel, in Louisville, last Tuesday night, and gave as one of the reasons for committing the rash act that certain ladies of his acquaintance had made fun of his bald head. "We give this item in defense of some of our local 'baldies' and not because we feel any personal interest in the matter.

We learn that the army worm has made its appearance on the farms of Col. Goodlett and Mr. Johnson Goodtree, on this side of the river, and have done considerable damage to their meadows. We also learn that they have appeared on the farms of Messrs. C. D. Roberts, J. Edmondson, Geo. Lowe and John Prewett, on the Southside of the river.

Strange True.

Occasionally a man who has paid some foreign dealer seventy-five dollars more for a Piano than Owen & Moore would charge for the very same make and style, say to them, "Why, I didn't know you kept Pianos." Two dollars invested in the CHRONICLE would keep them posted and save them seventy-five.

THE State Medical Society met in Memphis last Tuesday last, a large number of physicians from all over the State were present and the meeting was very interesting. The society was welcomed in an eloquent address by the Hon. J. W. Clapp.

WE are indebted to Mrs. Geo. W. Leigh, for a box of fine strawberries, of the Shawnee variety. Mrs. L. takes great pride in tending her berries, and we think, without doubt, raises the finest and largest in this county. Those wishing fine strawberries should send to her for them.

It is stated that Blaine has assured his friends that he will again run for Congress next fall. That is, he will go in training for the Presidential sweepstakes in 1884.

COL. E. W. COLE has resigned the Presidency of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad Company.

The Cantata.

The concert given by the beneficent and generous ladies, who had the affair in charge at Elder's Opera House on Tuesday night last, for the benefit of the University and City Park Association, was largely attended, the exceptionally large hall being nearly filled with our best society. The attendance was indeed a marked manifestation of the great measure of appreciation with which their kindly efforts to give us a neat, pretty and convenient Park, where our citizens can while away dull hours in social converse and shady promanades, are received by the public.

The stage was tastefully embellished with luxuriant plants, cut flowers, rustic seats and evergreens, presenting a scene, as the fifty white-robed song birds were interspersed here and there among the flowers, where "an exiled angel might for a while to mourn for Paradise."

The piece was the beautiful allegorical cantata of "The Flower Queen," where the Flowers meet in a secluded dell in the forest to choose their King. A person, discontented with the world, seeks, in the same place, retirement from its cares and disappointments. The Flowers tell of love and duty; and the Recluse, learning that to fill will the station allotted by Providence, is to be happy, resolves to return again to usefulness and contentment among his fellow creatures.

It was composed of numerous solos, duets, choruses, etc., sung by the young ladies in their various representations of Flora's daughters. The programme was a long one and we regret we have not the space to notice it in detail. The choruses were effectively rendered, and several of the solos, especially those by Miss Jennie Bailey who took the leading character of the "Rose." Her voice is a peculiarly pleasing one—flexible, clear and sweet, and never failing to elicit the applause of her hearers.

The Recitation and the song by "Hollyhock," Miss A. Wilson, was heartily enjoyed and was indeed worthy of great appreciation. Several solos by Mr. H. Glenn, of Bowling Green, a gentleman who has had much experience in such affairs and kindly consented to assist the ladies on this occasion, were sung with much effect. There were many other features of the programme worthy of particular mention, but time and space forbid.

The success of this laudable affair is largely due to Mrs. W. P. Hume, who worked with interesting energy and generous care to make it a success both financially and otherwise, and to her more than to any one are due the hearty thanks of the Park Association for the handsome sum which, we understand, was realized.

From the Southside.

Mr. Lewis Hale's annual birthday celebration came off on May 5, 1882, with the following persons present: Mr. John E. Mathis and wife, B. R. Ramey and wife, N. P. Irby, wife and daughter, Sam Morrison and wife, W. Hale, wife and son, Jas. Morrison and wife, Thos. Johnson and wife, J. P. Daly, B. M. Stephens and wife, Mr. M. Turner, Chas. Mathis, Mrs. Lucy Lyle, Mrs. Mary Hooper, Sam Jones and mother, who is 80 years old, John W. Mathis, from Miss, and Mrs. Nora Moody.

Mr. Editor, I must say the occasion was one of interest, and will long be remembered by all who were present. Imagine to yourself a long center table, richly laden with sweet-meats of every kind, pickles, lemonade, ice cream, etc. Then a long table filled with old hard-boiled eggs, the splendid barbecued pig, the fattest golden, the largest baked chicken that this country affords; all spread out before you. If I were called upon to testify upon oath, I would be compelled to say not a disreputable in this crowd, the digestive organs never in better condition for such an occasion. Every one was in fine humor, and Mr. Hale (whose birthday we were celebrating) among the rest, was as cheerful as cheerful could be. No one would have thought for a moment that he was a bachelor, but it is so. Somebody is to be blamed for this, I will not say who, but I will say this, some woman is missing a good home, a clever man and comfortable surroundings. I hope he may live a hundred years from the day of his birth, and have these annual feasts every year. Miss Nancy Hale, his sister, and Miss Henrietta Clark, keeps house for him, and this is the secret of the well-cooked dinner and the happy atmosphere. He was so highly appreciated by their invited guests. When everybody speaks well of a man, his sister and niece, you may know they are clever.

Prof. J. T. Richardson writes from Baltimore to his children that he is enjoying life among the rich Marylanders. He is on a visit to his boyhood home after forty years absence. He turns from juicy beef at the table and lives on fat salad and fresh oysters. He will get fat on such living and the trip will add to his many years.

Mr. S. D. Hunt, one of our best citizens, is suffering and in bed with a severe attack of erysipelas of the left arm; he is a little better to-day. Hope he will soon be well.

Everything is growing in the way of crops, at a rapid rate.

Yours truly,

B. M. STEPHENS.

Corrections.

The editor of the Temperance Column did not see the proofs of the matter in this week's issue till it had gone to press, and would correct the following errors, viz: In "salutatory" warnings to those, instead of "salutary." In "State Temperance Convention," approaching State election instead of State convention; also "at the time," instead of "at the term."

THE Greenback State Convention met at Nashville on Tuesday, about forty delegates being present. The convention adjourned until June 12th when a candidate for Governor will be nominated.

We received a note this morning from one of our young friends, Mr. John T. Main, former of a Monticello county boy, subscribing for the Old Chronicle, and ordering it to be forwarded to him at San Pedro, New Mexico, where he has resided for some time. He wishes us to say to his many enquiring friends in the St. Bethlehem neighborhood and other parts of the county that he is well and is doing well and weighs about 200 pounds. He says business is good and climate splendid for health.

Death of Rev. Dr. Thos. O. Summers.

The venerable Methodist divine, Dr. Thos. O. Summers, died suddenly at his home in Nashville on last Saturday morning at 4:30 o'clock, from a complication of diseases incident to old age. He was one of the most learned and distinguished Ministers in the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and was closely identified with its every interest and great prosperity. He possessed a most vigorous intellect and his counsels were invaluable to the church. He was born in England, October 11, 1812, and was consequently nearly seventy years of age. He came to this country while yet in his teens and soon after studied for and entered the Methodist ministry. He had been connected from time to time with several conferences, but had for many years past resided at Nashville, where he edited the Christian Advocate, The Southern Methodist Quarterly Review, and was book editor of the Southern Methodist church, Dean of the faculty of Vanderbilt University and professor of Systematic Theology. He has always been Secretary of the General Conference of the church and had just been re-elected to that honorable and painful position for the present Conference now in session at Nashville. He was one of the greatest lights of the church and his life was a noble work behind him. He was greatly beloved by all and his funeral last Sunday afternoon was the most largely attended that has ever been witnessed in that city. His remains were interred in a sequestered spot at the Vanderbilt University grounds.

Edmund Warfield, an old negro man about seventy years of age, formerly a trusted slave and body servant of Mr. Geo. H. Warfield, died at his home near the old homestead on last Monday, the 8th inst. he was an exemplary old negro, having led a humble and Christian life and by his upright and faithful character won the respect of all who knew him. He was kindly cared for in his last illness by his young masters, Messrs. Charlie, George and Luther Warfield, and his remains laid to rest in the old family graveyard on Tuesday morning.

We are glad to learn that the different committees of the Knights of Pythias, who have charge of the celebration of their eighth anniversary, on the 24th inst., have nearly completed their arrangements, and they will probably make their final report of programme etc., on next Tuesday night. There is no doubt but they will make it a success and an enjoyable occasion. Let all members be in attendance next Tuesday night.

THE Nashville World, of the 10th inst., says: "Capt. Ryman has just returned from Jeffersonville, Ind., where he has under construction, new packets for the lower Cumberland trade. One of these is for low water purposes and the other a regular packet between this point and Evansville."

A Whole Family Poisoned.

Considerable excitement was created around town on Thursday afternoon by the rumor that the entire family of Mr. Wm. Rosenfield had been poisoned by eating biscuit, (or something else), that contained some poisonous substance, and that several of them were not expected to live. Investigation by a CHRONICLE reporter found the rumor true. The facts, as near as could be learned, are about these: During the afternoon, an hour or so after dinner, Mrs. Rosenfield, six of her children, three of her lady assistants in her millinery establishment, and two colored servants were all suddenly taken sick, giving unmistakable signs of poisoning. Drs. Bailey, Beaumont and Trawick were immediately summoned and pronounced the patients suffering from some kind of poison. Investigation of the cause seemed to fix it on the biscuit, of which all those who were sick had partaken at dinner, while the other members of the family who did not eat biscuit were not sick. Rumors state that evidences of lubricating oil, or coal oil, or some other kind of oil, were found in the barrel of flour in which the biscuit were made. This is not true. The barrel of flour in which traces of oil were found was not used to make the biscuit, but only to sprinkle the rolling block and baking pans, while the biscuit were made from another barrel of flour of which that used in the biscuit was the last of it.

This would seem to explode the oil poisoning theory. However, or if it may be, they were evidently all poisoned, and some doctors all agree that the symptoms, which were severe nausea, retching, burning in the stomach, complete prostration, etc., indicated the presence of some deadly poison. After constant and careful treatment of the physicians all that afternoon and night, the patients were relieved, and we are glad to state have now fully recovered.

The case was evidently one of poisoning, and with what, no one is yet prepared to say. The flour and every thing else connected with the meal will be thoroughly analyzed and every effort made by Mr. Rosenfield to discover the cause. The affair is a mysterious one.

Strawberries—Thanks.

If there is any one thing a newspaper man needs his pencil for, with more dispatch and pleasure than another, it is to acknowledge the receipt of a nice lot of luscious, ripe, palatable strawberries. In the Spring a maiden's fancy may turn to thoughts of love, but for a country editor—give him strawberries or give him death. We are bound to some of our friends in the sum of "until death do us part" for three separate lots, this week. It must be a remarkably good year for them or else we are a little picky of the patch. We return thanks to other Jack McNeil for some as large as hen eggs, to Evergreen Lodge for some as large as turkey eggs, (more or less) and to Mr. Robert N. Gardner, for some as large as goo—well, we thought they were skinned water-mellons. We hope these gentlemen won't become offended at us for telling the truth about these strawberries, and if they don't believe what we say just let them send more and we will "measure" them.

On last Tuesday night, during the rain storm, some daring thief broke a pane of glass out of the front door of Messrs. Kincannon, Son & Co.'s store, through which he entered and rifled the cash drawer, but secured only a few dollars. Nothing else in the store seems to have been molested. No clue to the perpetrator of the bold theft has yet been discovered.

THE Gracy Warehouse sold on Wednesday, 13th inst. of leaf tobacco for Mr. W. M. Coleman, of Pleasant View, Tenn., at an average of 10 1/2 cts. They also sold 26 hds. of leaf Leno, Edwards & Winters, of Ashland, Tenn., at 87 cts. to $13.00. Bring on your fine tobacco and get big prices.
